Petitioner, proceeding pro se, brings this action as a state pre-trial detainee requesting habeas relief. Pursuant to the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(B) and Local Rule 73.02(B)(2), D.S.C., the undersigned is authorized to review such petitions for relief and submit findings and recommendations to the district judge. The Petition is subject to summary dismissal.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

Under established local procedure in this judicial district, a careful review has been made of the pro se pleadings. The Petitioner is a pro se litigant, and thus his pleadings are accorded liberal construction. Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 94 (2007)(per curiam); Cruz v. Beto, 405 U.S. 319 (1972). Even under this less stringent standard, the petition is subject to summary dismissal. The requirement of liberal construction does not mean that the court can ignore a clear failure in the pleading to allege facts which set forth a claim currently cognizable in a federal district court. Weller v. Department of Social Services, 901 F.2d 387, 390-91 (4th Cir. 1990).

Furthermore, this court is charged with screening Petitioner's lawsuit to determine if "it plainly appears from the petition and any attached exhibits that the petitioner is not entitled to relief in the district court." Rule 4 of Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases in the United States District Courts.¹ Following the required initial review, it is recommended that the Petition should be summarily dismissed.

DISCUSSION

Petitioner has filed what is referred to as a local § 2241 Petition. Petitioner is a state pretrial detainee requesting relief of acquittal. (ECF No. 1 at 8). Petitioner argues he submitted a habeas filing with the state court and received no hearing on it. (ECF No. 1 at 6). Petitioner alleges his due process rights are being violated. (ECF No. 1 at 6). Petitioner alleges he requested a preliminary hearing generally and a speedy trial. (ECF No. 1 at 7). Petitioner alleges he was forced to take a plea in state court, which he has withdrawn. (ECF No. 1 at 7). Petitioner alleges as his third ground that his liberty interest is in question and he is not being equally protected by the law. (ECF No. 1 at 6). Petitioner alleges he does have a November 13, 2024 docket date in state court. (ECF No. 1 at 7). As ground four, Petitioner alleges he is still unsure of the nature of the accusations against him. (ECF No. 1 at 8). Petitioner attaches a federal form he had submitted to the state courts in 2023. (ECF No. 1-1). There is a state court order about Petitioner filing federal court forms in the state court, that the state “court does not have jurisdiction over Mr. Holmes's [USDC] filings.” Public records show Petitioner has filed a plethora of motions in 2024 in his state court criminal case and his cases are on the general sessions motion roster for Judge Morgan on November 13, 2024 9 a.m.² Petitioner

This case is subject to summary dismissal based on the following principles regarding abstention.

Ordinarily, federal habeas corpus relief for a state prisoner is available post-conviction. However, “[p]re-trial petitions for habeas corpus are properly brought under 28 U.S.C. § 2241, which applies to persons in custody regardless of whether final judgment has been rendered and regardless of the present status of the case pending against him.” United States v. Tootle, 65 F.3d 381, 383 (4th Cir. 1995) (internal quotations and citation omitted). “[A]n attempt to dismiss an indictment or otherwise prevent a prosecution” is not attainable through federal habeas corpus. Dickerson v. State of Louisiana, 816 F.2d 220, 226 (5th Cir. 1987) (quoting Brown v. Estelle, 530 F.2d 1280, 1283 (5th Cir. 1976)).

In Younger v. Harris, the United States Supreme Court held that a federal court should not equitably interfere with state criminal proceedings “except in the most narrow and extraordinary of circumstances.” Gilliam v. Foster, 75 F.3d 881, 903 (4th Cir. 1996). The Younger court noted that courts of equity should not act unless the moving party has no adequate remedy at law and will suffer irreparable injury if denied equitable relief. Younger v. Harris, 401 U.S. 37, 43-44 (1971).

The following test is applicable to determine when abstention is appropriate: “(1) there are ongoing state judicial proceedings; (2) the proceedings implicate important state interests; and (3) there is an adequate opportunity to raise federal claims in the state proceedings.” Martin Marietta Corp. v. Maryland Comm’n on Human Relations, 38 F.3d 1392, 1396 (4th Cir. 1994) (citing Middlesex County Ethics Comm’n v. Garden State Bar Ass’n, 457 U.S. 423, 432 (1982)).

on government websites as inherently authentic or self-authenticating).

The information contained in the Petition filed in this case indicate that an ongoing state criminal proceeding exists. The second criteria has been addressed by the United States Supreme Court's statement that "the States' interest in administering their criminal justice systems free from federal interference is one of the most powerful of the considerations that should influence a court considering equitable types of relief." Kelly v. Robinson, 479 U.S. 36, 49 (1986). The Court also addressed the third criteria in noting "'that ordinarily a pending state prosecution provides the accused a fair and sufficient opportunity for vindication of federal constitutional rights.'" Gilliam, 75 F.3d at 903 (quoting Kugler v. Helfant, 421 U.S. 117, 124 (1975)).

Specifically, federal habeas relief is available under § 2241 only if "special circumstances" justify the provision of federal review. Dickerson, 816 F.2d at 224-26; see also Braden v. 30th Judicial Circuit Court, 410 U.S. 484, 489-90 (1973). While "special circumstances" lacks any precise, technical meaning, courts have looked to whether procedures exist which would protect a petitioner's constitutional rights without pre-trial intervention. Moore v. DeYoung, 515 F.2d 437, 449 (3d Cir. 1975). Where a threat to the petitioner's rights may be remedied by an assertion of an appropriate defense in state court, no special circumstance is shown. Id.; see also Drayton v. Hayes, 589 F.2d 117, 121 (2d Cir. 1979). Where the right may be adequately preserved by orderly post-trial relief, such as by appeal or collateral review processes, special circumstances are likewise nonexistent. Moore, 515 F.2d at 449.

Petitioner's claims may be raised in state court. Petitioner appears to be represented by counsel in state court and motions have been filed and hearings scheduled in state court. Because Petitioner can pursue his claims in state court, he fails to demonstrate "special circumstances," or to show that he has no adequate remedy at law and will suffer irreparable injury if denied his requested relief of release from imprisonment. See Younger, 401 U.S. at 43-44. Petitioner is precluded from federal habeas relief at this time and his Petition should be dismissed.

RECOMMENDATION

Accordingly, it is recommended that the Petition be dismissed without prejudice and without requiring the respondent to file a return.
